Message

Dear Canine Health Supporter,

In 2015, the AKC Canine Health Foundation (CHF) celebrated 20 years of helping dogs live longer, healthier lives through funding scientific research specifically for and about dogs. This year we significantly strengthened our efforts to directly address the concerns of dog owners for improving the health and well-being of their pets. The major objectives of CHF are to:

- Raise significant funds efficiently (Finances);
- Manage the funds effectively (Leadership/Staff);
- Spend funds wisely on the best and most needed science (Research).

This 2015 Annual Report presents information and data supporting how the Foundation has performed in these three critical objectives.

Finances: Effective and comprehensive science costs significant money. The Foundation can only accomplish big goals, such as sharply reducing the incidence of cancer and minimizing the impact of infectious diseases, if we can support the best researchers and investigative technologies with sufficient funding. In 2015, the American Kennel Club, the Foundation's founder and premier partner, generously donated more than $525,000 as part of their New and Lapsed Donor Match Challenge program, in addition to providing in-kind services that keep operating expenses low while maximizing the dollars the Foundation puts toward cutting-edge research. We also maintained our financial support from corporate sponsors Nestlé Purina PetCare Company and Zoetis. We saw contributions increase in 2015, and the percentage of new donors to the Foundation stayed strong at almost 40% of the donor population, a trend we've seen since 2014.

Leadership/Staff: CEO Susan Lilly retired at the end of 2015, and we thank her for her service to CHF and the positive impacts she had, especially in fundraising. Dr. Diane Brown, an accomplished scientist and veterinarian, took over the responsibility of Chief Scientific Officer during 2015, and subsequently assumed leadership of the Foundation as Chief Executive Officer in February 2016 (akcCHF.org/brown). Dr. Brown has applied her scientific knowledge and organizational energy to markedly advance the functions of the Foundation. The improved staff and operational effectiveness, and better communications with the canine community, have translated into advancing the quality and rigor of the research the Foundation supports while bringing a sharpened focus to the health needs of all dogs.

Research: The CHF Scientific Review Committee, under the capable leadership of Dr. Mary Smith (akcCHF.org/smith), brings excellence and rigor to the scientific review and selection process. Our team of volunteer peer reviewers is critical to this process (akcCHF.org/scientific-review-committee). To learn more about the work of the Foundation, the grants

2015 CHF-funded research project highlights:

- Continued the 14th year of funding for long-term medical surveillance study of search and rescue dogs
- Funded work to promote personalized medicine by addressing adverse drug reactions in dogs
- Promoted research in novel methodologies such as immunotherapy, gene and stem cell therapy
- Funded research in the treatment of bloat
- Committed to the development of vaccines against cancer and infectious disease
- Continued our commitment to educating the next generation of scientists for canine health
- Announced a new partnership with the American Kennel Club and the Theriogenology Foundation to support Resident Training
- Doubled our efforts for comparative oncology and a One Health approach to research for all dogs and their people

To learn more about our research and the impact of your support, please see page 5.

While there remains much more to do, we thank you for partnering with us these past 20 years to make a real difference in preventing, treating and curing canine diseases, improving the lives of all dogs and their human companions.

Our Work

The mission of the American Kennel Club Canine Health Foundation, Inc., is to advance the health of all dogs and their owners by funding scientific research and supporting the dissemination of health information to prevent, treat, and cure canine disease.

Your support enables the funding of canine health research to positively impact all dogs and their human companions as well.

Together, we can build on the important scientific advances in veterinary medicine and biomedical research to ensure all dogs live longer, healthier lives.

Corporate Alliances

Realizing the great need to fund biomedical research to specifically address the health needs of dogs, the American Kennel Club (AKC) formed the AKC Canine Health Foundation (CHF) in 1995 to raise funds and advance the field of canine health research. For the past 20 years, the AKC has provided more than $23 million in direct financial support to further the mission of the Foundation, including office space and other in-kind services to help keep operating expenses low, maximizing the dollars the Foundation puts toward cutting-edge research. With the ongoing and generous support of the AKC and their 2015 New and Lapsed Donor Match Challenge program, CHF continues to make an impact on canine health.

For the past 18 years, Nestlé Purina PetCare Company has invested more than $13.5 million in CHF to help dogs live longer, healthier lives. Additionally, Nestlé Purina offers several opportunities for dog enthusiasts to donate to the Foundation through the annual Thanksgiving Day @Purina #DogThanking campaign, their Purina Parent Club Partnership Program, and on the Walk of Champions and Path of Honor at the Purina Event Center in Gray Summit, Missouri, where personalized brick pavers memorialize and honor dogs and other loved ones.

Zoetis, a biopharmaceutical partner, has invested $1.5 million in the health of dogs through their financial and practical support of the mission of CHF. With a strong commitment to the future of the veterinary profession, Zoetis provides training and educational resources and research and development support to veterinary students and established professionals. Through their basic and applied research initiatives, Zoetis helps advance canine health by sharing their leadership and scientific expertise.

The Impact of Your Support in 2015

In 2015, more than $1.5 million was awarded in 33 new canine health research projects. These projects are being conducted at 19 universities/research institutions where funded investigators work to more accurately diagnose and effectively treat canine health concerns and diseases.

Sixteen different program areas received funding, from dermatology, neurology, ophthalmology and cardiology, to bloat and genetics of diseases, thus expanding the breadth and depth of the AKC Canine Health Foundation's research portfolio and benefitting dogs everywhere. The Foundation awarded seven new grants in 2015 to fight canine cancer alone, totaling more than $700,000. Several clubs joined forces to magnify the impact of their donations. One example is the Golden Retriever Foundation, American Boxer Charitable Foundation and Portuguese Water Dog Foundation who came together with funds for a novel approach to fight a devastating canine cancer called hemangiosarcoma (akcCHF.org/hemangiosarcoma).

2015 CHF-funded research project highlights:

- Continued the 14th year of funding for the long-term medical surveillance study of the search and rescue dogs that worked in New York City and Washington, DC, following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks (akcCHF.org/911study)
- Funded new work to promote personalized medicine for dogs by addressing the genetics of adverse drug reactions in sighthounds (akcCHF.org/sighthounds)
- Promoted research into novel methodologies, such as immunotherapy and gene and stem cell therapy for addressing important conditions from osteoarthritis and cardiac disease to atopy in dogs
- Continued our commitment to gastric dilatation and volvulus, or bloat, through funding to develop a novel, canine-specific catheter for urgent care in the treatment of bloat (akcCHF.org/bloat)
- Committed to the development of vaccines to fight or prevent canine lymphoma, brain tumors, osteosarcoma, and brucellosis
- Announced a new partnership with the American Kennel Club and the Theriogenology Foundation to help fund and administer four Theriogenology residencies to train specialists in the study of companion animal reproductive medicine beginning in 2016 (akcCHF.org/therioresidency)
- Doubled our efforts for comparative oncology and a One Health approach to discovery and research for all dogs and their people

The AKC Canine Health Foundation continues to see our previously funded research, across program areas and especially in canine cancer and comparative oncology, published in high-impact scientific journals. In 2015, articles were published on topics from cancer (hemangiosarcoma, lymphoma, bladder tumors, squamous cell carcinoma) to atopy, kidney disease, genetics, thyroid disease, platelet function, glaucoma and epilepsy. Such high impact journals publishing this work included Chromosome Research, BMC Cancer and BMC Genomics, Molecular Cancer Research, International Journal of Oncology, Journal of Veterinary Internal Medicine, PLOS Genetics, and Tissue Engineering and Regenerative Medicine. Through these peer-reviewed publications, AKC Canine Health Foundation-funded researchers broadcast their findings and advance understanding of important areas of canine disease, leading to new opportunities to improve canine health. Parent Club Conference

2015 National Parent Club Canine Health Conference

Through its mission to educate dog owners, breeders and veterinarians about research discoveries that help prevent, treat and cure canine diseases, the AKC Canine Health Foundation (CHF) hosts a two-day national conference on canine health. This biennial event draws veterinarians, researchers, dog club members, dog owners and breeders eager to hear a dynamic panel of featured speakers present the latest medical and scientific advances in canine health. The 2015 National Parent Club Canine Health Conference was co-sponsored by the Nestlé Purina PetCare Company and CHF.

The 270 registered attendees included 60 veterinarians, more than 75 breeders and 25 veterinary students co-sponsored by CHF and the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals (OFA), along with 20 experts from around the world who presented cutting-edge developments in canine health research.

During the conference, the biennial Asa Mays, DVM, Excellence in Canine Health Research Award was presented to Douglas Thamm, VMD, DACVIM (Oncology), Associate Professor and Barbara Cox Anthony Chair in Oncology, and the Director of Clinical Research at the Flint Animal Cancer Center, Colorado State University, for his contributions to the field of veterinary oncology and advancements in the understanding and treatment of canine cancer. This award is presented to an investigator who demonstrates meritorious advancements in furthering the mission of identifying, characterizing and treating canine disease and ailments. Dr. Asa Mays was a founding board member of CHF.

Investing in the Future

Investing in the Future: Clinician-Scientist Fellowships

The AKC Canine Health Foundation's Clinician-Scientist Fellowship Program encourages and supports the next generation of canine health researchers. Three promising veterinary residents, two also pursuing PhDs, were selected by their colleges of veterinary medicine to receive support from the Foundation for their training and research efforts. Named in 2015, the 2016 class of AKC Canine Health Foundation Clinician-Scientist Fellows are:

Vincent Baldanza, VMD, is a veterinary oncology resident at Cornell University's College of Veterinary Medicine. Dr. Baldanza works under the mentorship of Dr. Angela McCleary-Wheeler on "The Role of Canonical Hedgehog Signaling in Canine Osteosarcoma."

Vincent Baldanza, VMD

Shirley Chu, DVM

Shirley Chu, DVM, of the University of Missouri College of Veterinary Medicine is a veterinary oncology resident and graduate student pursuing her PhD. Dr. Jeffrey Bryan serves as Dr. Chu's mentor for her project on "Examination of the Methylome of Golden Retriever B Cell Lymphoma."

Emily Rout, DVM, is a clinical pathology resident and graduate student pursuing her PhD in the laboratory of Dr. Anne Avery at the College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences at Colorado State University. She is investigating variable heavy chain polymorphisms in canine chronic lymphocytic leukemia, and recently recognized for her work on "Preferential Usage of a Single Immunoglobulin Heavy Chain Variable Gene in Boxers with Chronic Lymphocytic Leukemia."
